---

Pilots/FROs,

In accordance with the Colorado stay-at-home order, all Colorado Wing CAP flight activities are immediately suspended. This restriction will remain in effect as long as the state order is in place (at least through 12 April). Any mission critical taskings to support the COVID-19 response or other emergency missions will be approved by the wing commander and be tasked directly by Maj Bill O'Connor, COWG/DOS and IC, or me. Please contact me if you have any questions.

Lt Col Chad Grondahl, CAP
COWG/DO

COWG Members,

In accordance with the Governor's instruction, all in-person CAP activities and training will be cancelled or postponed until after 11 April. Only mission essential activity will be permitted and must be approved by the wing commander. Just to clarify, if you are leaving your house to do anything CAP related, you must have coordinated it up the chain of command and have approval from the wing commander.

Please contact me if you have any questions.

Col John Rhoades, CAP

Colorado Wing Commander
