Escort Requirement Policy Defense Biometric Identification System (DBIDS)

The specific requirements for CAP escorts for visitors onto a military base can vary based on the base's policies and the nature of the visit. These requirements aim to ensure visitors' security, safety, and proper conduct while on the military installation and help maintain the integrity of the base's operations. Specific bases may have additional or more specific requirements, so adhering to the guidelines outlined by the particular base's policies and regulations is essential. Rules and regulations may be subject to change at any time based on military necessity or directives issued by base authorities.

However, generally, here are the typical requirements for an escort:

Authorized Personnel:

Escorts must be authorized individuals within the base or have received explicit permission to escort visitors onto the installation.

Clear Justification:

The escort should have a valid reason for accompanying visitors onto the base.

Identification and Verification:

Escorts are required to possess valid identification.

Knowledge of Base Procedures:

Escorts should be familiar with base protocols, rules, and regulations. They are responsible for guiding visitors while ensuring compliance with base policies during the visit.

Responsibility and Accountability:

Escorts are responsible for the conduct and actions of the individuals they escort while on the base. They must ensure that visitors follow all base regulations and guidelines.
